“ I remember when the Caran family came to Finletter. George was a grown man in a young man's body. He was quiet but I remember always feeling safe when he was around. He was different in the best way! Safe journey home to you George. I'll see you all at the gate someday I hope. Until then party on, have fun and keep my space warm. XOXO

“ My favourite memory of George is learning the saying 'Winner winner chicken dinner' when playing Rummy. I still use it today. He was a fun opponent and could talk a good game. But the memory I will cling to is when I first arrived to Philadelphia as a naive 22 year old fresh off the plane from Australia. The family had just gone hunting and brought back a pig. I was happily sitting on the stairs watching the family feast. I didn't want to try any so George came over and sat on me so I couldn't get up and tried to get me to try the pork. I was laughing so hard that he almost got me to eat some. I hope he is at peace and holding a winning hand.
